

Dining in the great outdoors...

Dining outdoors is a pastime that's loved by people of all ages. From riverside picnics to beach barbecues, beer garden lunches to al fresco dinners, outdoor dining is guaranteed to put a smile on everybody's face.

But for all of its popularity, it's considered as being very much of a luxury that's at the mercy of the great British weather. The unpredictability of the UK weather means it's difficult to know when it's going to be good enough, and stay good enough, to sit outside and enjoy. One second it's sunny, next minute it's raining, and then it's sunny again, it's impossible to keep up!

Nevertheless, demand for dining all fresco remains high on customers' lists of priorities and so bar, restaurant, hotel and B&B owners are getting increasingly creative with their outdoor space to cater for customer demand.

Over the next few pages, we share some examples of how some of our hospitality customers are beating the British weather and serving up the ultimate outdoor experience.

About the Cantabria canopy

You'll have no doubt have spotted that we installed our Cantabria canopy system at the three projects that have been featured on pages 2 to 6.

The Cantabria isn't the only outdoor canopy system that we offer. However, it is hugely popular among our hospitality customers for all sorts of reasons, including the fact the:

- Roof can be easily retracted at the touch of a button
- System can create up to 184 additional weekly covers*, generating up to £7,000 a week
- Durable aluminium frame, integrated guttering, waterproof roof and glass screens effortlessly combine to make a UV-protected environment
- Glass screens easily transform an open space into a stylish, fully enclosed unit
- Extensive range of glass sides that are available include fixed, folding and sliding, balustrade and internal
- System offers 100 per cent protection in wind speeds of up to 60km/h when fully closed. In the finer months, the glass sides can be retracted, and come the cooler, wetter or more changeable weather, can be partially or fully closed
- Finished product looks incredibly stylish and is capable of instantly creating a focal point and giving venues that added wow factor
- Canopy is available in any length and projections of up to 10 metres for single units and 20 metres for twin units
